History of Santorini

Santorini, and officially Thira is an island in the southern Aegean Sea, about 200 km southeast of Greece's mainland. It is the largest island of a small, circular archipelago which bears the same name and is the remnant of a volcanic caldera. It forms the southernmost member of the Cyclades group of islands, with an area of approximately 73 km² and a 2011 census population of 15,550. The municipality of Santorini comprises the inhabited islands of Santorini and Therasia and the uninhabited islands of Nea Kameni, Palaia Kameni, Aspronisi, and Christiana. The total land area is 90.623 km². Santorini is essentially what remains after an enormous volcanic eruption that destroyed the earliest settlements on a formerly single island, and created the current geological caldera. A giant central, rectangular lagoon, which measures about 12 by 7 km is surrounded by 300m high, steep cliffs on three sides. The main island slopes downward to the Aegean Sea. On the fourth side, the lagoon is separated from the sea by another much smaller island called Therasia; the lagoon is connected to the sea in two places, in the northwest and southwest. The depth of the caldera, at 400m, makes it possible for all but the largest ships to anchor anywhere in the protected bay; there is also a newly built marina at Vlychada, on the southwestern coast. The island's principal port is Athinias. The capital, Fira, clings to the top of the cliff looking down on the lagoon. The volcanic rocks present from the prior eruptions feature olivine and have a small presence of hornblende. It is the most active volcanic centre in the South Aegean Volcanic Arc, though what remains today is chiefly a water-filled caldera. The volcanic arc is approximately 500 km long and 20 to 40 km wide. The region first became volcanically active around 3–4 million years ago, though volcanism on Thera began around 2 million years ago with the extrusion of dacitic lavas from vents around the Akrotiri. The island is the site of one of the largest volcanic eruptions in recorded history: the Minoan eruption, which occurred some 3600 years ago at the height of the Minoan civilization. The eruption left a large caldera surrounded by volcanic ash deposits hundreds of metres deep and may have led indirectly to the collapse of the Minoan civilization on the island of Crete, 110 km to the south, through a gigantic tsunami. Another popular theory holds that the Thera eruption is the source of the legend of Atlantis.

How to get to Santorini

By plane

From Eleftherios Venizelos airport in Athens, you may fly to Santorini. The flight should last about 45 minutes approximately. The airport of Santorini is about 3km outside Fira (main town of the island of Santorini)

By ship from Piraeus or Rafina

To get to Piraeus, you can take the X96 bus which departs every 20-40min from the airport. Allow about 60-90 minutes for the trip to the port.

Every day there are ferries connecting Piraeus to Santorini.

Sea Jet, tel. +30 210 4121001

Blue Star Ferries, tel. +30 210 8919800

Hellenic Seaways, tel. +30 210 4199000

GA Ferries, tel. +30 210 4582640

To get to Rafina you can catch the bus from the designate area opposite the Sofitel Hotel, which is just 200m from the arrivals exit. The trip takes around 50 minutes. You can buy the ticket from the bus driver when entering the bus.

The departure hours are as follows (Monday-Sunday):

- From the Athens Airport to Rafina: 04:50, 05:40, 06:10, 07:05, 08:50, 10:30, 12:00, 12:15, 13:15, 13:30, 14:10, 15:20, 16:30, 16:45, 18:00, 19:20, 20:40, 20:45, 22:20.
- From Rafina to Athens Airport: 05:15, 06:05, 06:45, 08:00, 09:40, 11:20, 12:25, 13:00, 14:40, 16:00, 17:20, 18:40, 20:00, 21:15.

A point for the return journey - the bus stop adjacent to the square in Rafina is only served by the Athens buses. If you want the airport bus you must descend the steps to the port road at the other (seaside) end of the square and the bus stop next to a little newspaper shop is where the airport bus picks you up as it leaves the port.

The ticket cost 5.00€. Children under 6 years can travel free. Half price ticket at 2.50€ is available for student, and people of age 18- and 65+

You can also take a Taxi to go to the Port of Piraeus or to the Port of Rafina.

If you take a taxi it is a good idea to let the driver know that your destination is Santorini, so that he takes you in the port area where are the ferries to Santorini.

Once you reach the port, there are a lot of travel agencies from where you can buy your ticket. Keep in mind that there are more or less 3 types of ferries that can take you to Santorini.

- The first one is a normal ferry (cheapest but also slowest option). In this case the trip takes about 9-10 hours.
- The second case is the so-called Blue-Star ferries (relatively fast and not too expensive). The trip in this case should last about 7 hours.
- And the final, fastest and most expensive option is the so-called High-Speed ferries. With a High-Speed ferry it should only take you about 5 hours to get to Santorini.

Transportation in Santorini – How to get to the hotel

You can take a bus from the airport to Fira or one of the taxis outside the airport. Alternatively, you may call your own Taxi by calling +30 22860-22555.

Beaches

Red Beach (Kokkini Paralia)

Red beach is the most impressive of all beaches in Santorini; the definition of a volcano beach. Its name reveals its colour. Everything here is red creating together with the rocks a scenery you cannot possibly find anywhere else. Although it's a rather busy beach, younger ages seem to prevail.

Tip: You should be equipped with hats, suntan lotion and shoes for walking along the path. The temperature here seems to be twice as high as on the rest of the island.

How to get there: You can park in the road right below the archaeological site Rahidi and take the boat for the Red Beach, that runs every half an hour and costs 5€. Otherwise, when reaching the archaeological site, turn on the right, park in front of the chapel of Agios Nikolaos and continue on foot. In case you choose to go by car, you should be aware that there is a distance of about 5-10min that is quite rough.

Monolithos

If you have a family with small children, the Monolithos beach is your ideal destination. As a result of its shallow waters, big waves do not reach the beach. There is also an organized playground keeping kids busy until 7 o'clock in the evening. For teenagers or adults, there are beach volleyball and basketball courts, as well as a soccer field. How to get there: By car or by bus, which runs frequently. It is located 9kms far from Fira.

Vlyhada

The volcano white rocks in Vlyhada remind us of a moon landscape. It is one of the most beautiful and best organized beaches in Santorini. No water sports available here.

Tip: You should spend some time at the beach bar Theros, which is in perfect harmony with the scenery.

How to get there: From Fira you take the road to Akrotiri. When you are there you will see a sign to Vlyhada. There are no buses running and this discourages big crowds of tourists and elderly people from coming to this beach.

Agios Georgios - Perivolos

Black sand and crystal clear waters; the ideal beach for safe diving and long sunbathing lying in comfortable deckchairs while listening to summer music. Mind the rocks because at some spots it is slippery! There is a lifeguard on the beach. Tip: The place-to-be for the celebrities of the island is the famous Seaside by Notos at the very beginning of the beach, offering the best beach service ever. Anemos is another top beach bar, situated in the yard of an old tomato factory.

How to get there: From Fira take the road towards Emporio and continue towards Perivolos.

Perissa

The natural “extension” of Perivolos, awarded with the E.U. blue flag, stretching up to the imposing white rock at the end of the beach. The more adventurous can dive from the rocks at the end of the beach (the area is called Kolada).

Activities: Mediterranean Dive, Santorini Dive Center and Wave Sport Club offer you everything -from jet skis, canoes and bananas to wind surfing. There is also a Water Park. The charming chapel of Agia Irini (dating back to 16th century) is located near Perissa. Additionally, you can walk to the Ancient Thera. The boat to Kamari sets off also from this point (every half an hour until 18.00, 5-7€).

How to get there: It is less than 15kms far from Thera. Bus service is available throughout the day.

Kamari

A beach awarded with two E.U. blue flags, well-organised, with a lifeguard and plenty of room for lying free on the sand. In the northern part of the beach, the sea has slippery slabs. For the more adventurous and risky ones, the best place for diving is at Kamari towards the hill of Profitis Ilias. But always with great caution!

Tips: The best thing to do in Kamari is inquire at Ancient Thera Tours and follow an organised sightseeing tour to Ancient Thera. Also note that walking up the hill of Profitis Ilias for 20' and following the path, you will reach the chapel of Zoodohos Pigi, where there is a spring with running water. Here you are very close to the location of Ancient Thera. For Scuba Diving contact the Kamari Dive Center or Aegean Divers. Regarding food, for delicious traditional Santorinean recipes visit 'Kyra Irini's' Taverna at the entrance of the village. Mrs Irini herself is waiting for you there to offer you her traditional dishes. It is worth also visiting Nihteri restaurant which offers top quality local food.

How to get there: By car and bus.

Exo Gialos

The closest beach to Fira and the smallest beach with amenities on the island: black sand, quite deep waters, only a few beach chairs for couples and visitors seeking calmness and tranquility. At the Aegialos restaurant you will find whatever you need from traditional dishes to local cocktails.

Tip: Great parties with famous guest djs are organized throughout summer –the absolute place for having a blast at beach parties and enjoying the sunrise view at the seaside!

How to get there: Follow the signs leading to the beach or if you are an athletic type try reaching the beach on foot as it is only 2km far from Fira.
